

With the increasing unemployment rate especially amongst the youth (age 18 - 27 years) of our country, we are excited to be partnering with WildTrust in joining the YES (Youth Employment Services) Sustainability Impact Project for a second year to provide much-needed internships for 15 successful candidates. This programme is sponsored by Nedbank and forms a vital part of our commitment to reducing poverty and mentoring young lives, in a bid to improve work ethic & workplace skills. The "YES" initiative is a collaboration between government and business to provide more jobs and apprenticeships for South Africa's young workers. The proposal sees businesses/NGO's offer year-long paid learning courses - effectively "on-the-job" training - to help bring the next generation into the working environment and give them opportunities they would have struggled to get previously.

Love Howick is all about drawing together the strengths of our community in a co-ordinated way to see sustainable transformation in our town. The YES program has already seen business leaders, NGO's and various community organisations, partnering together to provide training for our interns on a weekly basis. Topics include Financial Management, Time Management, Workplace Excellence, Leadership Training, Health & EQ Development, First Aid and much more! If you would like to offer training in a certain area, please get in contact with us.

While Nedbank covers basic monthly wages for the YES Interns, we would like to make an appeal to the generous Howick community to consider partnering with us to cover the additional day-to-day & management costs involved in ensuring our streets stay clean, our unemployed community are given the skills boost they need and various other social problems in Howick are addressed. If you would like to sign up as a monthly financial partner then please contact info@lovehowick.com. Together we can see our dreams of a prosperous community realised!

MEET Njabulo Shange

Njabulo is a former dream centre student. He was 20 when he did the Job Readiness course. He is now 23 and working at Metrofibre. He says that this course helped him to relate better to people in the workplace and customers. He would take away this lesson from his time at the Dream Centre: always treat people well.

"Believe in yourself. Even if you don't, pretend that you do and at some point you will."
